
Ways People Share

— Gavin Pierce —

Soup Kitchens

A soup kitchen is when a place serves food to those who need it. The food comes free or below market prices to the poor and homeless who really need the help. These are extremely useful practices that save many people from starving every day.

Too Good To Go

Too Good To Go is an app that allows restaurants to offer their food that would've gone bad otherwise. This practice allows restaurants to decrease food waste and help those who can't afford food every day with a meal.

Belfast Co-op

The Belfast Co-op is a market carrying as much local goods as possible. They pride themselves on knowing farmers and vendors by name. Co-ops like these are good ways to support your local community rather than large corporations.

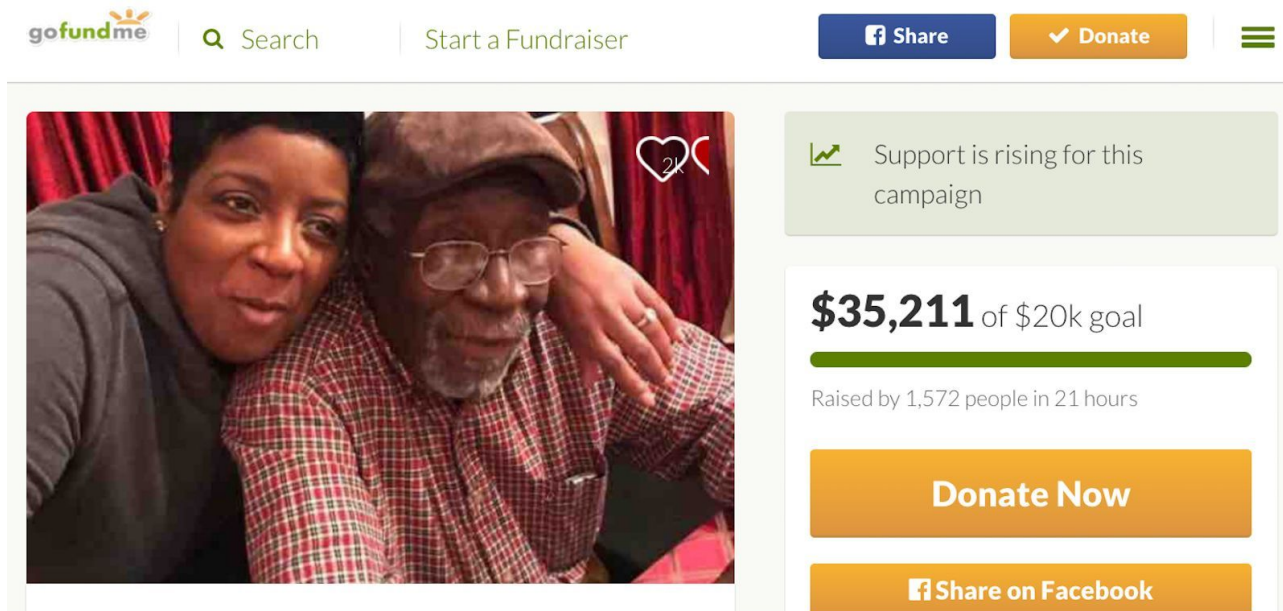

Bangor Forest

Local forest like the Bangor Forest are locations where many people can go to the outdoors. It is kept clean and is a community focused area that no one is kept away from.

Gofundme

Gofundme allows community to come together and donate their money to help a specific cause they care about. This allows those without proper funding to possibly get a life saving donation for something they need

The screenshot displays the Gofundme website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Gofundme logo, a search bar, a 'Start a Fundraiser' button, a 'Share' button, and a 'Donate' button. The main content area features a large photograph of a woman and an elderly man. To the right of the photo is a green box indicating that support is rising for the campaign. Below this, a progress bar shows that $35,211 has been raised towards a $20k goal, with a note that it was raised by 1,572 people in 21 hours. At the bottom of the campaign area, there are two prominent buttons: 'Donate Now' and 'Share on Facebook'.

gofundme | Search | Start a Fundraiser | Share | Donate

Support is rising for this campaign

$35,211 of $20k goal

Raised by 1,572 people in 21 hours

Donate Now

Share on Facebook